Nandana

nandanavilla.com

Proprietors Gigi Gutierrez and Patrick Salisbury turned their personal Thai-inspired haven on Old Bahama Bay into a rental property without changing a thing (all the way down to the Bulgari amenities). WHY GO This gated paradise accommodates up to 12 guests in four villas and a 2,000-square-foot yurt with a chef, masseuse, boat captain and chauffeur at your service. DESIGN DETAIL Architect Mark de Reus realized the couple's dream of a Thai retreat in the Bahamas, even importing teak from Burma that was milled on site. DON'T MISS A 50-foot deep-sea fishing yacht will take you away from it all with a picnic on a deserted island. —AS

2 / Amsterdam, Netherlands

De L'Europe

leurope.nl

This five-star hotel by the Amstel canal adds an artistic touch to business travel. WHY GO It has the only six-bedroom hotel penthouse suite in the city. DESIGN DETAIL No need to head straight for the Rijksmuseum – the 23-suite Dutch Masters wing is inspired by classic paintings (find priceless originals throughout the common areas). For a Van Gogh-style stay, book the Provocateur, which features a starry ceiling of sparkling lights. DON'T MISS Named in honor of beer baron Alfred Heineken (who used to entertain colleagues there), Freddy's Bar is also home to award-winning cocktails and an adjacent cigar lounge. —BS

3 / Dubai, U.A.E.

Al Maha

al-maha.com

As if a mirage, this Bedouin-style encampment beckons weary travelers in the heart of Dubai's desert landscape. WHY GO The white and khaki tents that make up the luxury hideaway provide a serene resting place after a day of adventuring. The 42 suites are designed to provide 180-degree views of the landscape and indigenous wildlife in the Dubai Desert Reserve. DESIGN DETAIL Each suite comes equipped with its very own infinity pool. DON'T MISS Racehorses from the private stables of Dubai's Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum are available to guests who are skilled enough to ride along the shifting dunes. —AS

4 / New York, U.S.A.

Trump SoHo

trumphotelcollection.com

If New York's Trump International (think crystal and marble) represents the Donald, then the Trump SoHo (onyx and silk) is pure Ivanka. The chic, modern hotel marks her move into the hospitality spotlight. WHY GO A prime address in the midst of the trendy shopping and dining district, the 46-floor hotel is about 20 stories taller than the rest of the neighborhood, meaning uninterrupted views of the Hudson and the city skyline. DESIGN DETAIL Luxe finishes from leather wall coverings to Fendi Casa furniture. DON'T MISS Ivanka's travels to Turkey inspired The Spa at Trump, which features the only high-end hammam in Manhattan. —NM
